The Conservation Management Status categories described below were modified by the Sweetwater Trust and the Nature Conservancy from a 1998 publication, "Mapping and Categorizing Land Stewardship, a Handbook for Conducting Gap Analysis." (<http://www.gap.uidaho.edu/handbook/Stewardship/default.htm>) An abbreviated explanation is provided below:

- "Wild Lands" (Status 1) are those protected and managed in a natural, undisturbed condition;
- "Low Use" lands (Status 2) are protected as natural cover, but may receive uses that degrade the quality of the natural communities;
- "Medium Use" lands (Status 3) are protected as natural cover, but are subject to extractive uses such as timber harvest; and,
- "High Use" lands (Status 4) are protected as "open space" for recreation uses or for agriculture, where natural processes are altered or replaced by human use of the land.
